

Dear Activision Decathlete,

Sure, you're good. Nobody ever doubted that.

But when you quietly told your friends that scoring more than 10,000 points in The Activision Decathlon was not unthinkable...that it was, in fact, within the realm of possibility...well, maybe they thought you were a little crazy.

Of course, what they forgot about was dedication. The kind it takes to make it to the Olympic Games in the first place. The kind that dwells only in the heart of a champion.

Congratulations. Enclosed is your gold medal! We know the incentive to jump higher, run faster, throw farther... and try harder is partly because the deepest reward of competition is in the striving, not just in the end results.

Well, you gold medalists are the best!

Yours truly,
