

CITATION: Star of Honor

Awarded for the highest level of skill and cunning
in defense of your country

Sometimes on the field of battle there will occur a moment of glorification.

For example: it is night on a barren plain. You have been battling relentless Robot Tanks for what seems an eternity. Five waves of the automatons have faced the fury of your laser cannon, yet still they come, one after another: the sixth squadron. It is by far the worst yet.

The average person would wilt, quit, run. But not you.

Because you have the heart of a warrior.

With consummate skill you engage that sixth squadron--twelve of the most fanatic fighting machines in the entire history of warfare--and, against all odds, you emerge the victor. This is glorification. It is yours.

For this remarkable feat of soldiery, we at Activision World Headquarters now bestow the Star of Honor upon one super tank commander.

Congratulations. In beating Robot Tank, you beat the best in video gaming.

Citation authorized by:

Jan Marsella
Commander-in-Chief, Game Clubs
Activision World Headquarters

P.S. Please be sure and read the heat seal instructions on the reverse side of the patch. Your name will also be added to our mailing list.